

The Vermont Alliance For Recovery Residences (VTARR) is committed to a fair and transparent certification process. The reputation and credibility of VTARR rests on its ability to make objective and impartial decisions in relation to the certification of quality and safe recovery residences as well as other actions that could negatively impact those in recovery from Substance Use Disorders.

Certification is a voluntary process; however, all recovery residences operated under one entity must submit to certification. The certification process is designed to be consultative in nature and is based on adopted standards and ethics developed by the National Alliance for Recovery Residences (NARR). Annual compliance is affirmed through submission of extensive documentation, onsite inspections, participation in various trainings and responsiveness to concerns and/or grievances.

Any exceptions or provisional certifications require VTARR Board review and approval. Site visits for certification will not be scheduled until payment and all required documentation is received.

NARR Standard 3.0

Introduction

NARR was founded in 2011 by a group of organizations and individuals with vast experience in recovery housing from across the country. From the beginning, NARR has been committed to developing and maintaining a national standard for all levels of recovery housing. The term “recovery residence” denotes safe and healthy residential environments in which skills vital for sustaining recovery are learned and practiced in a home-like setting, based on Social Model principles. The Social Model is fundamental to all levels of recovery residences. Social Model philosophy promotes norms that reinforce healthy living skills and associated values, attitudes, and connection with self and community for sustaining recovery. NARR Standard 3.0 operationalizes the Social Model across four Domains, 10 Principles, 31 Standards and their individual rules. The Standard is tailored to each of NARR’s four levels. Version 3 of the NARR Standard does not introduce any operational rules that are not already included in Version 2. Rather, it restates them in a more logical way that improves clarity and eliminates some redundant language.
